Judge Out of Game For Week With Gashed Leg: Baltimore Team Wins M. A. Net Doubles

SPIKED BY BABE RUTH AS YANKEES WIN, 14-7

Erickson and Courtney Both Hammered While Nationals Absorb Third Straight Defeat.

BY H. H. FRY. NEW YORK, June 2.-It was simply a slaughter at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, the Yankees hammering the ball all over the lot, and trimming the Nationals in the most pronounced manner, 14 to 7. Erickson, the big Swede, who has been carrying the honors of being the best pitcher on Griff's staff at the present time, stepped on his collar-button or something just as disconcerting and was hammered into smithereens by bludgeons of the uprising Yanks. Eric got away well for two innings with the brilliant assistance of Shannon, Roth and Judge, but the Huggins crew has smelled the blood of a series struggle and tore all of the offerings of the Swede to pieces in the third. The entire Yank crew batted around, Hannah coming up twice for the third out. A six-run lead these days does not bother the Griffmen, and Eric was sent back for the fourth round in the hope that he would regain his effectiveness, but he wasn't there with the goods, and, after Vick had singled and Peckin-

What they did to Mr. Courtney was repetition of the medicine handed fric and before the final out was hung up four more runs had regis-tered and the Yankees' total was twelve. After that Courtney did fair twelve. After that Courtney did fair twelve. After that Courtney did fair to middling in the pitching line, compared to what had happened in the preceding innings, but his mound work was of the highest order of excellence compared to his great fielding error in not covering first on Ruth's grounder to Judge. Had he gone over Judge would not have had to race Babe to the bag and the action according to the least of the court of the best cident that put one of the best cident that put one of the best courteev, p. to race Babe to the bag and the accident that put one of the best players in the American League out of business for at least a week would not have happened. Courtney finished the game simply because Griff had no one else to send in.

The Nationals opened on Ruth as though they were going to drive him to the tall timbers and finally did so, but it was too late. Judge walked as but it was too late. Judge walked as starter, but Milan fouled out, and ice died at first, the two outs sending Judge to third. Roth hit a roller right at Peck which Roger booted and Judge raced home. Harris sent a double into right and Roth registered. Ellerbe singled to right, and Harris Washington ... 2 0 0 0 2 1 0 0 2 7 pulled up at third. Stanley then tried New York .... 0 0 6 6 1 0 1 0 1 14

With the score standing 12 to 2 and Ruth cold from the long wait for his mates to score six runs, the Griffpass and went to third on Gharrity's double to left. This was enough for Tarzan, and he beckened to Huggins for relief and trotted out to his reguar job in right. Thormahlen came n and retired Courtney on a grounder Pratt, Shannon coming home on the ace in center. Hank having gone first after Judge was hurt, hit to ort for an out at first, and Gharrity

The fifth run came Washington's way in the sixth round, when Harris looped a long fly into the left-field bleachers for a home run. The Griffmen made it seven runs all in the final round when they scored two more runs, the result of singles by Milan, Roth and Harris and a force

The Yanks sewed up the game in stand, six runs coming over the plate. In the fourth five singles and a home run by Peckinpaugh added six more tallies to the Yanks' string, a descrip-tion of which would only be heart-racking to the Washington fans. An-other tally was scored in the fifth, the result of Peck's double and an error by Shannon. The Yanks' final run came through in the seventh on Pipp's single to right, a wild pitch and Ruth's slashing double to right.

Courtney May Be Fined.

Joe Judge, the sterling first-sacker, was spiked so badly in yesterday's struggle with the Yankees that the chances are that he will be out of the game for a week at least. The play that ended disastrously came up in the fourth inning. Ruth hit as slashing grounder that Judge stopped with his usual cleverness and, seeing that Courtney wasn't coming over to cover the sack, made a dash for the bag in a race with Ruth. Both slid for the bag with Owens standing over the sack, his spikes digging deep into Joe's left leg just below the knee. The accident was unavoidable, and Ruth was the first to yell for 'a doctor. The spikes cut a gash about two inches slong and deep enough to expose the shin bone. After the doctor had warpped up the wound Joe got to his feet, shook hands with his benefactor and walked off the field. Griff was furious over Courtney's oversight and it would not be surprising if a stiff fine is plastered on the pitcher, as this is the second time he has erred in not covering the bag on the same sort of play.

Heavier Hitting Is Due

There's been fome slashing hitting in base ball this year, which, Ban Johnson says, is due in part to the quality of balls. A better quality of horse-hide is being obtained by the manufacturers and they are getting yarn of Australian wool, something they weren't getting previously. The yarn is of a quality which gives added liveliness and resiliency to balls, hence their greater spring and impetus when leaving the bat. However, they could be wrapped with lead and Babe Ruth would drive them.
